

Q: Let me turn to the matter of the near riots in Jackson, Mississippi, Jackson College. By a common report, Mr. Evers in the middle of the disturbance, worked to get the students back off the streets, and succeeded. Now you were saying to me earlier, that you felt that this method had dangers for future demonstrations had a dangerous effect on the white expectations about it. Would you explain that to me?

A:

(CANOT HEAR MRS. RICHARDSON)